

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Barre People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, vertigo, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in marvellous succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Barre.

Mrs. J. L. Cummings, 80 Elm street, Barre, Vt., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills to-day as when I publicly testified as to their merit three years ago. Experience has proven to me that the claims made for this remedy are genuine. The worst symptom of kidney trouble in my case was a sharp pain in my hips, often lasting for days at a time. During these attacks, I could not sleep at night, and it was with the greatest difficulty that I got about the house. If I happened to catch cold, it settled in my kidneys and aggravated the trouble. I used many number of remedies, but I found more relief from Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at B. A. Brown's drug store, than from any other preparation I had previously taken. They relieved the pain in my back, strengthened my kidneys and proved to be a reliable kidney remedy in every respect."

NORTHFIELD.

State Quarries May Open Up Soon.

Meeting of Company April 12.

The annual meeting of the Vermont Black Slate Company will be held Tuesday, April 12, at which time the company will probably elect a new general manager, to take the place of the late E. D. Pike. It is confidently expected that the quarry will be opened within the next few weeks. This quarry is equipped with the most modern machinery and the slate is said by experts to be the finest of any in the country. If this quarry could be operated on a paying basis, as no doubt it can, it certainly would develop into an industry of which any town might well be proud.

The prospects for a winning baseball team at Northfield are the best in years, with practically all last year's team back in college, and with the many promising candidates in the freshman class, it is believed they will be able to put a team in the field that will compare favorably with any college team in New England. Coach Whitney is putting the men through a strenuous campaign, in preparation for the first game, with Goddard, April 16.

CABOT COUPLE CELEBRATE.

Many Attended 37th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Haines.

Friends, neighbors and relatives from hillside, valley and plain gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Haines last Friday evening to remind them of their 37th wedding anniversary and extend their hearty congratulations and good wishes to the worthy couple.

After a social chat, the company were entertained by several piano solos by Miss Judith Haines. Mrs. G. Henry Goodale read a poem, which she composed for the occasion. Appropriate remarks were made by Rev. W. T. Sparhawk, bringing to mind the pleasant home-life which bind a family, one generation after another to the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Haines were the recipients of a beautiful couch and several other valuable and useful tokens of remembrance of silver, linen and cash. The presentation speech was read by H. M. Hills in a few well-chosen words, which was very pleasantly responded to by Mr. and Mrs. Haines. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served. The occasion will long be remembered by those present, as well as the fact that it was a genuine surprise.

The poem composed and read by Mrs. Goodale follows—

Flash! Listen! Do you catch the refrain That floats by in the air again and again?

I fancy I hear a sweet voice say How, long ago, on a bright spring day,

The wedding bells did chime. Now swinging high, now swinging low, In rhythmic time, with musical flow,

Pealing forth the notes both far and wide How a modest groom and a lovely bride

Had pledged consensual vows. A legend of old has been handed down, From time immemorial of fame and renown,

That for every transaction enacted this day The parties concerned the joker must pay.

This must have been the parson. For this good couple, who then were wed, A happy, prosperous life have led.

While each for the other had ever a charm, Which made home pleasant at Hillside farm,

And never a row been broken. This fiftieth month of sunshine and showers, When the air is laden with the odor of flowers,

And the sweet songs of birds from hill-top and tree Are wafted to us on the wings of the breeze,

In a fitting time for weddings. An emblem of life, this April of ours, Made up of sweet music, of sunshine and showers;

As cheerful and droll as the waters' bright gleam As onward we go down life's wonderful stream—

This wonderful stream of life. Four dutiful children came with you to stay, To lighten your cares and brighten your way;

One son has gone forth to build a home of his own, And one has crossed over to the realm of the blest.

To dwell 'neath Elysian bowers. And two are still with you, a girl and a boy,

To comfort and strengthen and fill you with joy. May your cares be brightened by some friendly deed,

Kindness and sympathy all of us need. Then let us smooth the rough places.

Thirty-seven years are over and gone, And still the march of time moves on. Two things, he said, if I might beside, Wait not for men—Time and Tide.

The varying tide of life. How swift the wheels of time roll round, So still, so quiet, with never a sound,

To warn us of time flying fast. Till the new year tells of the old, which is past—

The beautiful vanished past. And the little sprites will hold their sway, Strange things still happen on April first day.

All we, like the Assyrians of old, Have come down to your home, like a wolf on the fold.

To celebrate your wedding. And may you not feel, after this renovation, As did Will Carleton's elder, after his famous donation,

For in thirteen years from this very night We're coming again with the little sprite And celebrate your golden.

Saved from the Grave.

I had about given up hope, after nearly four years of suffering from a severe lung trouble," writes Mrs. M. L. Die of Clarksville, Tenn. Hood Farm Jersey Bull.

Judge N. L. Boyden, Radioior Center, Vermont, has purchased at Hood Farm, Lowell, Mass., a very choice bred bull calf by the great Hood Farm Pogo 9th, a son of Pogo, the champion and grand champion Jersey cow at the World's fair, St. Louis. Judge Boyden writes as follows: "Calf arrived at depot at three o'clock and is now in the barn seemingly all right. He is said by on-lookers to be one of the handsomest calves ever shipped into town. He seems to fill description."

WHY THEY FAIL

Most File Remedies Miss the Cause of Piles.

Disagreeable treatment with ointments or suppositories usually fails to cure piles and cutting them off won't remove the cause. Such treatment only weakens the outside effects of the disease and fails to remedy the inside cause. The up-to-date doctors now use internal medicine, to free the circulation in the lower bowel, and so remove the disease.

Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid, the first and only guaranteed internal pile cure—made of tablets—cures any kind of piles. Sold by Burt H. Wells, Barre, Vt. For large box, Dr. Leonard Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

If the warm weather continues, there is talk of having several band concerts in May. Often some have been given until the first of June and seldom before the last of May.

The Blanchard opera house is being rapidly dismantled of its fixtures, the stage having been torn out, the floor taken out and a good part of the seats in the parquet and gallery.

A complete set of portraits of all the officers of the Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance company, since 1828, have been received and will be hung in the office of the president, secretary and treasurer.

Jesus Aja was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $53.15, in city court yesterday afternoon for operating a slaughter house near a dwelling. He paid the fine imposed. Eugene Ringham pleaded guilty in court to the charge of intoxication and paid a fine of $5, with costs, amounting to $16.64.

Edward Lovely, a resident of this city about eight years ago, died yesterday at the state hospital in Waterbury and the body was brought here where funeral services were held this afternoon, with Rev. J. Edward Wright officiating. Mr. Lovely was 38 years of age, and is survived by a wife.

The Barre County Real Estate and Insurance company, with a capital of $1,000, organized for the purpose of doing a real estate and insurance business, filed articles of incorporation yesterday at the office of the secretary of state. The incorporators are M. V. B. Vance, James M. Dodge and Kyle T. Brown, Lunenburg; Sherwood C. Case, C. L. Huxley, Lancaster, N. H. The company will be located at Lunenburg.

The Woman's club, which now has a membership of 167, met last evening in the Kellogg-Hubbard library hall. A new department, the nature study club, has been formed, with Mrs. Mason Stone in charge. An enjoyable program was rendered, the feature of the evening being a travel talk by Miss Brown, a frequent sojourner abroad. Her talk was illustrated with stereoscopic views.

Current Comment

Dustless Highways.

The permanent highways being built in Fair Haven are admitted by all to be a great improvement upon the kind that were built by the grandfathers and great grandfathers but when it comes to the matter of dust it is a mooted question whether there has been anything gained by the change from dirt to macadam.

The stone used for topping the roads, in and about this village, when pulverized by the attrition by which it is subjected is as fine a substance as it is possible to produce and the least bit of friction stirs it into a cloud of dust that penetrates everywhere and makes life anything but a pleasure to those who are obliged to be upon the busy streets of the town.

Just how to overcome the nuisance, for it is a nuisance, is the problem that now confronts the business men's association. It is understood that organization is about to wrestle with it and if it does there will be something done and that right soon.

Water has been tried upon the highways for a number of years, and while helpful its use is not altogether to be commended and the chances are that something else will be resorted to this year. Oil has been tried in some places with success and sulphite, the refuse from pulp mills, in some others and the probabilities are that the trustees will be asked to experiment with the latter.

As has already been said, something will have to be done and done at once and the trustees should look into the matter with the business men and take some steps that will at least abate if they do not altogether rid the town of this just ground for complaint.—Fair Haven Era.

Brattleboro's Campaign Against Tuberculosis.

It is a long time since a more helpful, hopeful and inspiring meeting has been held in Brattleboro than the one in the Congregational chapel Wednesday evening, when a large company of Woman's club members and their guests gave earnest and interested attention to Miss Lindgren's story, so clearly and effectively told, of the work in the tuberculosis camp last season and of her own work as the district nurse in charge of tuberculosis patients in this village during the winter. If the Woman's club had performed no other service for the community, the beneficent results of this undertaking would justify its existence many times over.

It was clear to all who listened to Miss Lindgren's story that the benefit of her work is not by any means confined to the patients whom she visits and cares for, but that her mission is educational and preventive in a very broad way. And this fact suggests the question as to whether a general system of intelligent, painstaking district nursing and supervision would not afford the surest and most effective means by which to combat the "great white plague." Because of the work of the Woman's club and of Miss Lindgren's watchful and increasing oversight, Brattleboro was never so secure against the inroads of consumption as it is to-day.

Support the state of Vermont when it takes up this pressing problem, along these general lines and organize a system under which every town and every family in the state should have the benefit of this kind of helpful, intelligent oversight, would it not be the surest way to reach and help every individual case, to prevent the spread of the infection, and eventually to stamp out the deadly scourge?—Brattleboro Phoenix.

PROFIT IN PEANUTS.

New Demand For Them In Manufacture of Oil and For Food.

Government experts say peanuts can be grown successfully wherever corn is grown, so the notion that the peanut is exclusively a southern product is erroneous. Many farmers in northern states already putter with peanuts, chiefly to give the children a supply, but it is highly probable that in a very short time the succulent goober pea will be planted largely in states north of Mason and Dixon's line for profit.

Agents of the agricultural department report that in the states of Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas there will be planted this year three times the acreage of peanuts that was grown last year. They estimate that in these three states alone there will be 100,000 acres in peanuts.

Heretofore the great peanut section has been the tide-water country of Virginia, where thousands of farmers grow peanuts as their principal crop and make good money from them.

The agricultural department has been experimenting with peanuts in the southwest, where the boll
